A Critical Hour Approaches

"The Age of Treason"

As our country pauses on the brink of war — the Germans told us over the week-end that if we attempted to convey goods to Britain it would become "a shooting war" — every American ought to understand the grim social revolution which lies behind Europe's war, and by that yardstick take the measure of our own necessity while preparing the nation's defense.

Parity Bill Is Signed

President Approves
Bill for 85 Per Cent Parity

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt Monday signed legislation providing loans on major farm crops on 85 per cent parity plan with the understanding the prices should not be permitted to go above the parity level.

President Roosevelt said the legislation reflected the government's objective of 8 years and the fact that farmers did not have and have not a great share of the national income as other groups.

Nazis Now Have 3 Footholds on Strategic Isle

British Concede
Enemy Penetrating
Defense Lines
Near Capital

By the Associated Press
Adolf Hitler's aerial invaders of Crete, reinforced by air-borne tanks and sea-transported troops, penetrated British defense lines Monday in an attack west of Cania, the Crete capital, and Axis reports asserted that the British fleet had been driven off after suffering enormous losses.

British Middle East headquarters, acknowledging Nazi inroads under cover of a violent assault by the Luftwaffe, said New Zealand troops were counter-attacking and that "severe fighting is continuing" in the Cania sector.

The Germans now apparently have three strong footholds on the 150-mile long island—in the regions of Cania, Cania and Retimo—and the Nazi high command reported "a steady flow of reinforcements" was arriving from Greek mainland bases 100 miles away.

British general headquarters' description of the German attack "west of Cania" presumably referred to the vicinity of Nazi-held Malemi air-drome.

British "Tommy's" along with fight-hardened Australians and New Zealanders were said to have inflicted "heavy casualties" on the Germans in the seven-day-old struggle.

Crete Capital Destroyed
Reports reaching Cairo said that over the week-end the Nazi Luftwaffe had bombed Crete's principal cities on a terrific scale, comparable to the bombing of Rotterdam, Holland, when Hitler's invasion armies stormed into the Lowland countries last spring.

These reports said Crete natives escaped severe loss of life by taking shelter in the island's caves.

London sources disclosed that British marines are now engaged in the battle but they declined to say whether substantial reinforcements were being landed to fight the Nazi invaders.

In London a British spokesman said fighting on the island Sunday was "quiet" but he cautioned Britons against thinking "the German bolt was shot."

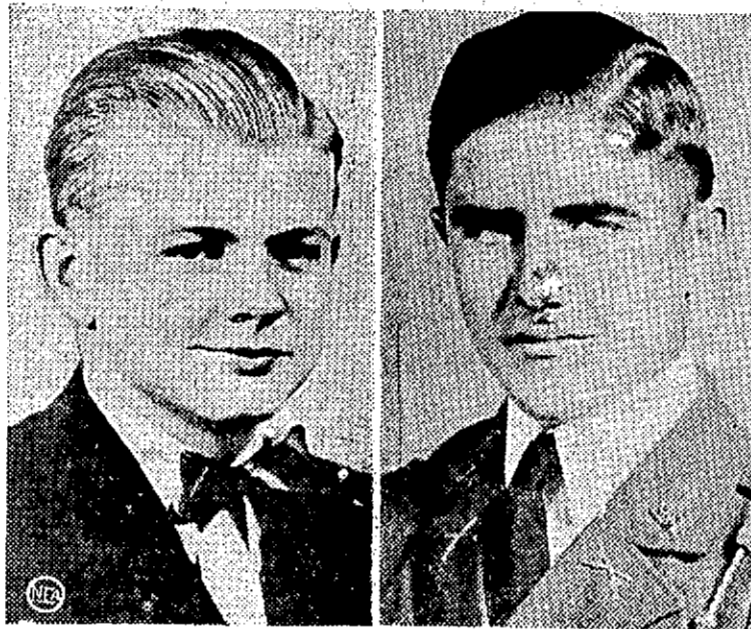

Dispatches from Rome said German troops had been landed on the island from ships protected by the Italian navy convoyed through waters the British fleet had guarded.

The British acknowledged that a few sea-borne reinforcements might have landed but said they were insignificant.

The British, reporting the arrival of air-borne German tanks, said Nazi aerial invaders were still holding the

Rescuer Seeks to Stop Suicide; Crash Kills Both

William D. Woodward, left, apparently with suicidal intent, started to take off from Wichita, Kans., airport in a light training plane. His friend John Blumfeld, right, suspecting his suicide plan, jumped into the plane behind young Woodward and struggled with him for control of plane as it began to take off. Reaching height of 250 feet the plane went into a dive and crashed, killing both Woodward and his attempted rescuer.

Dr. Kolb to Leave June 15

Will Take Up
Duties as State
Hospital Head

Dr. A. C. Kolb, newly appointed superintendent of the State Hospital said Monday that he had no plans until he could confer with the department heads of the hospital.

"There will probably be some positions, known to exist at the present time, that will be abolished as a means of saving and whatever changes are made will be in the interest of the taxpayers and patients," he said.

Dr. Kolb said he would take over his duties on or about June 15, with offices in Little Rock.

The local man has long been connected with state hospitals, having served as a member of the board of control of the Louisville Neuropsychiatric Sanatorium eight years before coming to Hope in 1931.

He was appointed by Gov. Futrell to the board of control of the Arkansas institution and served until April 1935, when he was appointed superintendent of the hospital. He served as superintendent until March 1, 1937.

Dr. Kolb sponsored a recent legislative bill to reorganize the state hospital. The bill passed the house and lacked on vote for senate approval.

Other hospital authorities appointed by the board of control are: Dr. N. T. Hollis, Little Rock, assistant superintendent of the Little Rock unit.

Dr. A. C. Watson, Little Rock, assistant superintendent in charge of the Benton unit.

Porter Stayton, who had previously served 20 years as general farm superintendent, was reappointed to his old post.

Encirclement of Nation Having Effect on Policies

ANKARA, Turkey—(AP)—With the nation facing semi-encirclement by the Axis armies of occupation, many Turkish political observers agreed Sunday that the country's foreign policy "must undergo an evolution."

"Turkey has been a non-belligerent ally of Britain since the war began and has received British financial and economic help."

Passage from the Black sea of the first carloads of Nazi-produced armaments was seen as the first development in the chain of situation for Turkey.

Responsible sources denied foreign reports that the Axis had requested permission to move troops through Turkey.

British displeasure has been strongly evidenced in Ankara over Turkey's refusal to "choke off" the Stream of French army equipment reported sent to Iraq by the Turkish-Syrian rail lines running mostly through Turkish territory.

Turks told the British reciprocal agreements with Syria permit either country to make military use of the route regardless of other international obligations.

The company's own 205 vehicles will be supplemented by trucks from the Nebraska Quartermaster regiment. The night convoy was planned so the long motorcade will clear Little Rock and Memphis during the least traffic.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said Monday he had an idea Berlin "is trying to do anything it can to becloud" President Roosevelt's fireside chat Tuesday night.

He made that statement when reporters informed him that the German foreign office was commenting on an interview in which Grand Admiral Raeder, commander of the German navy, warned the United States against convoys and patrolling.

Early told reporters: "I've got an idea Berlin today is trying to do anything it can to becloud the president's speech and precipitate something for you gentlemen between now and Tuesday night."

He added that he would not be surprised if reporters were querying him about other dispatches from Berlin before the presidential address.

The speech has begun to take on new significance from world developments such as the Raeder declaration and Japan's seizure in French Indo-China of 10 million dollars worth of American products belonging to U. S. firms.

The address replaces one Mr. Roosevelt was to have made two weeks ago, and Early had told reporters not to build it up as of extreme importance.

But when asked Monday whether he thought a similar warning was warranted, he said:

"Up to Sunday I would have repeated the warning. Today I can tell you the president will be engaged through the day into the night and most of Tuesday in revising his speech in the light of rapidly-changing conditions abroad."

Hull Answers Raeder

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State Hull Monday accused Germany of seeking by threats to induce the United States to refrain from any effort of self-defense.

Hull made his statement in commenting on a statement by Admiral Raeder, commander of the German navy, that the American patrol system was aggressive and that convoys would mean shooting.

Hull told his press conference that Raeder's statement appeared to be some sort of threat to induce this country and other American nations to refrain from self-defense until Hitler gets control of the seas of the world.

"It is a favorite system Hitler has used in many cases in countries of Europe," Hull said, "either by threat or persuasion to induce another country to refrain from any real defense until Hitler is ready to seize it."

He said Raeder's statement seemed to be part of a conquest by force.

Registration Called July 1

More Than Million Men to Sign for Army Service

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt Monday ordered the second registration for compulsory military service July 1.

The president said in a proclamation that another registration was required in the interest of national defense.

New registrants will include those men who on or before July 1 have attained their 21 birthday.

Registration will take place in the United States, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and Alaska.

Every male citizen and alien residing in these areas register if he has reached his 21 birthday since the first registration.

Approximately one million men will be required to register.

Zamzam Victims
Found Harmless
to Be Released

BERLIN — (AP) — All American women, children and men found to be genuine missionaries may leave for home as soon as arrangements can be made, the German government said Monday.

Others are still being investigated but will be released as their harmless status is established, the sources said. (This evidently applies to an ambulance corps bound for service with the Free French which was among the American passengers on the Zamzam.)

Puerto Rico has about 1.15 acres of land per capita compared with the Philippines' 7.50 and Hawaii's 15.77.

She must remember she isn't trying to impress people her own age now. She's trying to impress an employer who is interested in only one thing. "Is she a good investment or not?"

She won't carelessly slide into the habit of being late to work, being all set to leave the office fifteen minutes before closing time, or waiting when she has finished with one job until someone notices and comes around to give her something else to do.

And she won't let any opportunities pass for learning more about the organization for which she works with the thought, "What's the use? This is just a temporary job."

Even if the job should prove to be temporary, in spite of her attitude, she will have learned far more from it and will probably get much better recommendations to use in hunting for a permanent job than the girl who treated her first job as temporary from the very beginning.

THREE TO MAKE READY

BY W. H. PEARS

YESTERDAY: The story of Tony's injury hits front pages and Cardman's campus, on the eve of commencement, is ominously quiet. Dr. Lud warns Paula if the League-Prater fight times, it may mean Dr. Van Horn's arrest. Chris comes to the sorority house, tells Paula he is leaving. The town marshal arrives with a warrant for Chris' arrest, sworn by Tony.

LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

CHAPTER XII

STUNNED, Paula watched Sands lead Chris away. Aloud, she spoke her resentful thoughts, all the affection she had once felt for Tony turned to loathing. "Oh, Tony, how could you do a thing like this?"

She shook herself. It did no good to stand there hating Tony. She must help Chris. Get him out of jail. If she did that for him he couldn't refuse to graduate, she told herself fiercely.

She could think of only one person to call—Dr. Lud. And even as she rang his number she had a feeling that it was hopeless.

"This is Paula Jeffers, Dr. Lud."

"Yes, Paula?"

She said breathlessly, "Something terrible has happened. Tony's had Chris Wendrich arrested. He's in jail now!"

Dr. Lud's voice was sympathetic but calm. "I'm sorry, Paula, but perhaps it will cool Wendrich off a bit."

"But, Dr. Lud, tomorrow's Commencement and—and Chris won't!"

He cut in gently, "I'm afraid there's not much I can do, Paula. Chris's fate rests entirely in Tony's hands."

"Oh..."

Paula's icy fingers replaced the receiver. She stood for a moment battling tears, then she ran up the stairs to her room. Jerking her money from the drawer she counted it. Her father's gift plus railroad fare home came to more than $100.

Stuffing the bills into her purse, Paula left the house.

THE Cardman Center jail was a tiny pillbox of a building with a rusty office in the front. Jake Sands had his feet on the desk when she entered.

"Afternoon, miss. What can I do for you?"

Paula waved the money at him. "I've come to get Chris Wendrich out."

"Heck, I just got him in, miss. Tain't often we have a guest in here."

"Stop joking!" Paula begged. "How much will it take?"

"Well, now that's a question I can't rightly answer. The J. P. arranges all them matters, and he's up in the city watching a ball game. Won't be back till late."

"But I have $100. I'll give it all to you."

Sands grinned. "Sounds a bit like bribery to me. Sorry, miss, tain't legal without the J. P.'s say-so."

Paula bit her lip. "May I see Chris?"

"Don't see why not, miss. Just follow your nose."

IN the rear of the building were two small cells. Chris sat on a dirty cot in one of them, his chin in his hands. He saw Paula and made an effort to flash his old reckless grin at her. But the fakeness of it brought tears to her eyes.

"Come on, Chris," Paula coaxed, "get that old chin out of the mud. As soon as the justice of the peace comes by, I'll have you out of here." She moved close to the bars, took his hand. "Oh, Chris, how could Tony do this to you?"

But the old Chris, who would have flamed with anger at Tony, was gone. In his place was a sober, thoughtful person trying to be just.

"I—I can't say that I blame Tony, Paulie. If he thinks I'm the one who socked him, he has a right to put me here. Besides, if I can't be out of town, this is the best place for me. No matter what happens tonight, they can't blame me."

"Chris, do you think something may happen?"

He shrugged. "There's a League meeting scheduled. If the fraternity fellows ever find out about it, 'Where's the League meeting?'" Paula demanded.

"Nothing doing, Paulie," Chris's jaw set. "I won't be the one to let."

And no matter how much she pleaded, Chris remained adamant. She tried to be angry at his stubbornness, but she couldn't. Chris looked so terribly disturbed and unhappy that she could find only pity for him in her heart. As she turned to leave, Chris called her back.

"Paulie, there's something I ought to tell you. It's—Kilo."

But Paula had read something in Chris's face that sent cold fingers clutching at her heart.

"You... can tell me later, Chris," she said, and left him.

CROSSING the street, Paula had to wait for a car, a small blue coupe. In the dusk she caught a glimpse of the homely face of Bill Jenks. But it was his companions who made her breath come faster. Hal Bascomb and the president of another large fraternity!

What was Bill Jenks up to now?

infant United States, but to save their homes in the Ohio country.

There are few generals and no extraordinary heroes in Ralph Beebe's story of the Ohio frontier, "Who Fought and Bled" (Coward-McCann; $2.50). Here is a plain tale of ordinary men, who went to war and hated it, who were lucky to get back home alive. These were the men who hacked roads through the wilderness, who froze on winter marches; these were the starved, ragged frontiersmen who were led into surrender at Detroit and into massacre at River Raisin.

Strange partners were Buck Stark, fresh from Ohio, and Rod Hale, Harvard graduate. Hale inherited an Ohio farm, and Stark helped him keep it. Their adventures include all sorts of business schemes from Hale's lecture on the Mammoth in Stark's medicine show to fights with river bullies, and clashes with British and Indians. There's a girl, too, but she contributes little to the novel.

It's a lusty, man-sized story, well-seasoned with laughs, and it tells the story of the average man—a hero often overlooked by both fiction and history.

Mystery fans find a treat in Harrison R. Steeves' "Good Night, Sheriff" (Random House; $2). Here is a "who-dunnit" with minimum of murder, but well-plotted detection of the killer.

The young physician who tells the story provides the reader with all his clues, and if you're clever at solving crimes you may beat the author to the punch.

Bette Davis Stars in "The Letter", Opens Tuesday at Saenger

Top Dramatic Star Scores Another Hit

Miss Davis Returns to Dynamic Role in New Saenger Picture

From nineteenth century France and America, Bette Davis moves forward in time and Eastward in space, to the present day and the Straits Settlement on the Malay Peninsula for her role in "The Letter," her newest starring picture which opens Tuesday at the Saenger.

After a vacation following her performance in "All This and Heaven Too," in which she appeared with Charles Boyer and Barbara O'Neil, Miss Davis returned to the studio to star in the film version of the Somerset Maugham play.

"The Letter" offers Miss Davis a return to the highly charged, dynamic characterization which first brought her fame. As the wife of a British rubber planter isolated in the small white colony in the Orient, Miss Davis is seen against a sultry background whose under-currents of passion and cruelty provide tension and excitement for the strange drama.

Already recognized as one of Hollywood's most unusual productions, "The Letter" includes several startling innovations.

Howard Koch, Art Director Karl Jules Wray, who designed the sets for "All This and Heaven Too," was again assigned to create the settings for Miss Davis in her Academy Award winning performance of "Jezebel."

Featured in the supporting cast are Herbert Marshall, Gale Sondergaard, James Stephenson, Bruce Lester, Frieda Inescort and many others.

Bette Davis says the part of Leslie Crosbie in "The Letter," was the most difficult role she ever attempted and it's all the fault of Katharine Cornell.

Leslie Crosbie was difficult enough without the Cornell hazard. She is a fragile, well-bred, gentle person but she commits a brutal murder and carries it off with the nonchalance of a lady presiding at the garden party.

"It's a great part," Miss Davis said, "a very wonderful part—but I saw Katharine Cornell do it on the stage. She did it in New York in 1927. I was so fascinated by her acting and genius that I saw the play twice, and I can recall every vivid detail of her performance."

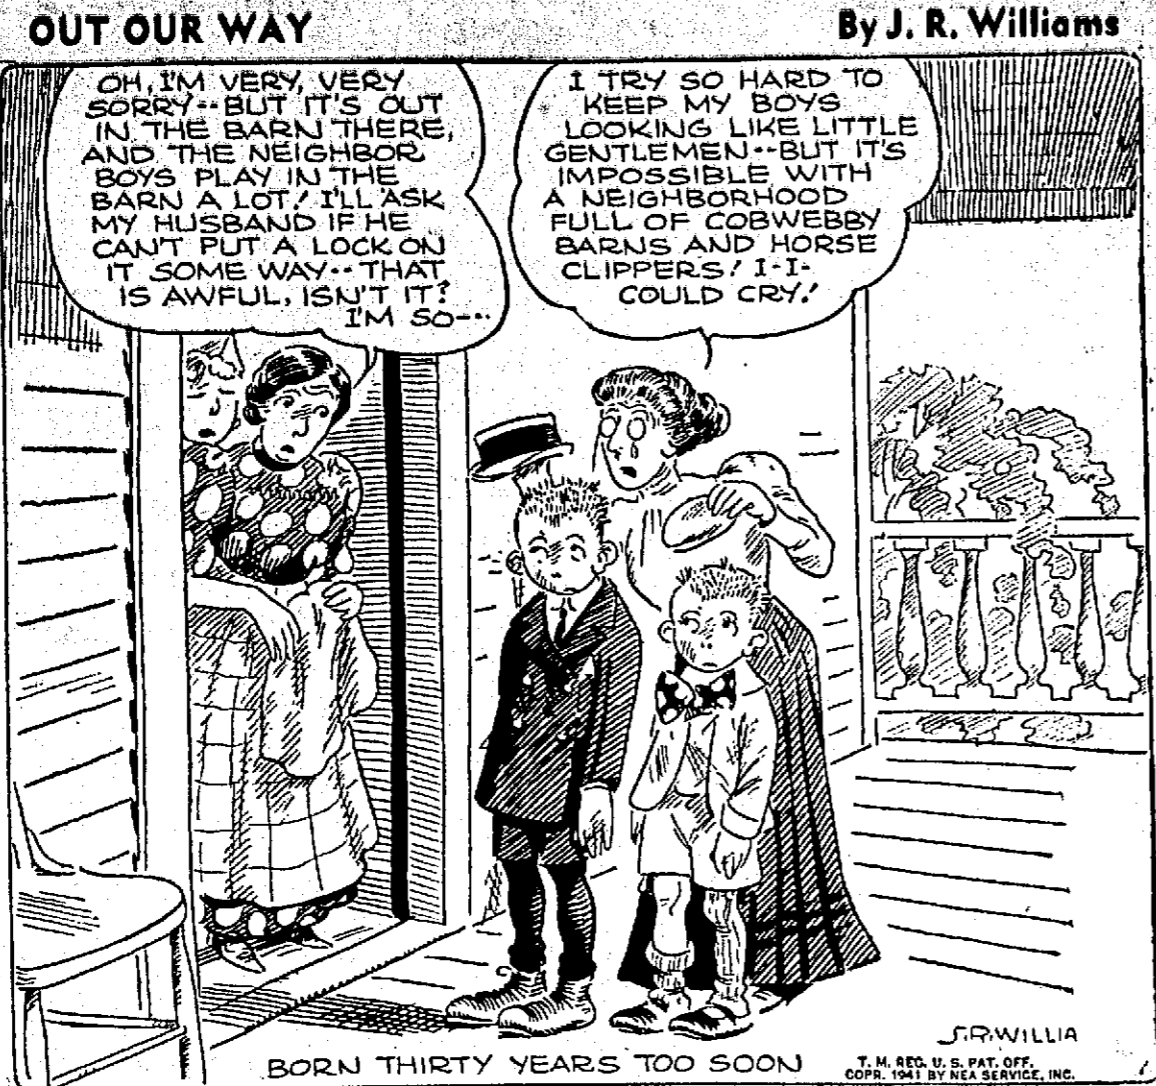

"But, you see, I'm not at all like Kithy Cornell. I had to make this part mine, all mine, my very own."

"It was the hardest thing I ever tried, because I kept remembering Cornell in the part."

It's doubtful if any actress ever paid another so sincere a compliment as that.

The spring fever some people are kicking about is the same case they had all winter.

Mussolini's high command said Fascist planes were also engaged in the attack on Crete, repeatedly bombing and machine-gunning strongholds on the island.

Strike British Fleet

BERLIN —(AP)—German air and Italian naval and air forces combined to sink 11 "enemy" cruisers, eight destroyers, one submarine and five torpedo-boats, and damaged one battleship and several more cruisers and destroyers in the eastern Mediterranean since last Tuesday, the German high command announced Monday.

In addition to this summary of the fighting since the battle of Crete began the war bulletin said that Sunday the Luftwaffe blasted British positions on the island itself setting munition dumps afire and destroying two merchantmen in nearby waters.

Six British planes were declared destroyed in Sunday's air fights, including three bombers and three fighters, with an additional three RAF planes destroyed on the ground.

In the forays against the British Mediterranean fleet since the battle started, the Germans said, the Luftwaffe accounted for seven of the British cruisers, including some anti-aircraft cruisers, and the Italians destroyed four.

Nazi airmen, the high command reported, hit the battleship and several cruisers and destroyers, and the Italians were said to have several other ships.

"Thus English mastery of the sea in the eastern Mediterranean suffered a severe setback through excellent collaboration of the aerial and naval forces of the allied Axis powers," the high command asserted.

Claim Fleet Smashed

BERLIN —(AP)—The British Mediterranean fleet suffered "devastating blows" in the battle of Crete and is no longer to be reckoned with by Germany, the commentary Dienst aus Deutschland declared Monday night.

This authorized military spokesman, commenting on a high command report of destruction wrought on British warships, declared Germany and Italy had virtually wiped out the cruiser section of the British navy's Mediterranean fleet.

24 Nazi Planes Downed

CAIRO —(AP)—At least 24 German planes were destroyed and many others damaged in new British raids against German forces on the island of Crete, the RAF said Monday.

The raids were staged Sunday and Sunday night, the report said, with the German-held Malindi airbase and adjoining fields used for the landing of gliders, as the principal targets.

Bombs fell among large concentrations of troops-carrying planes, causing much damage, the report said.

Kennedy Flays U.S. 'Crusading'

'Democracy Can't Be Imposed by Force' He Says

ATLANTA —(AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy, former United States ambassador to Great Britain, urged over the weekend that the United States "not be deluded by any claim that self-interest should make us guardians of the peace of the rest of the world."

In an address prepared for the Oglethorpe University commencement exercises, Kennedy said "the crusaders' argument for war is the silliest of all" and asserted that "democracy cannot be imposed by force or otherwise."

"In our very attempt at this colossal crusade," he said, "we would end in failure and disgrace abroad, in disillusionment and bankruptcy at home."

"We cannot, my fellow Americans, divert the tides of the mighty revolution now sweeping Asia and Europe. They were not of our making and they will not be subject to our control, no matter how courageously or exhaustingly we strive to subject them."

He also urged the nation to beware of slogans and said this country should not become a belligerent "just because we hate Hitler and love Churchill."

Wheat Growers Get One Cent

America's wheat growers, such as shown on the combine harvester above, get approximately one cent as their share of an 8-cent loaf of bread, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

On the right, a farm program employee demonstrates the relatively small size of the "slice."

AAA officials say that if farmers received a parity wheat price of approximately $1.13 a bushel, instead of the current price of about 68 cents, consumers would pay only two-thirds of a cent more for a loaf of bread.

Both cotton and corn require large amounts of nitrogen for their best growth. Cotton will usually respond profitably to an application of 30 to 35 pounds of nitrogen per acre, and corn usually returns a profit on almost as much nitrogen per acre.

(Thirty pounds if the quality of nitrogen contained in about 190 pounds of nitrate of soda, and 145 pounds of sulfate of ammonia or cyanamid.)

The use of 16 pounds of nitrogen per acre as a side dressing, in addition to 16 pounds of nitrogen applied under the cotton in the form of 400 pounds of 4-10-4 fertilizer per acre, resulted in an average increase of about 78 pounds of seed cotton per acre more than the 4-10-4 alone in over 500 cotton fertilizer studies conducted by the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture in 71 counties of Arkansas, according to Charles F. Simmons, the College's Extension agronomist.

Farmers whose cotton yields have been reduced because of wilt and rust can control these diseases to some extent by the use of potash. If enough potash was not applied before planting, Mr. Simmons said that extra potash in the form of muriate of potash can be applied as a side dressing at the same time extra nitrogen is applied.

Further information on side dressing with potash and nitrogen can be obtained from the county agent.

Generalissimo Spikes Any Hope of Heading Revolt

VICKY, France —(AP)—General Weygand, generalissimo of France in the days of her defeat and now commander of all Vichy forces in North Africa, has thrown his support behind the Petain government's plan for collaboration with Germany, it was disclosed over the week-end.

As Marshal Petain's proconsul for North Africa, Weygand made a special air trip to Fez, French Morocco, to make clear his position to the French colony there. His headquarters have been in Algiers. Dispatches from Fez said Weygand in a speech to leading members of the French Colony said:

"All Frenchmen concerned for the future of continental France as well as the empire should subscribe unanimously to the principles of the policy of collaboration decided on by the marshal."

He concluded with an appeal for "discipline and union" and urged colonial leaders to "follow without hesitation the way mapped out by the venerated chief of the community of Frenchmen."

Farmers Are Advised to Apply Nitrogen

Cotton, Corn Require Nitrogen for Best Growth Says Adams

Nitrogen applied to cotton after it has been chopped but before it has begun to square, and to corn when it is about knee-high, is one way to obtain extra yields at a very low cost of production, provided these crops did not follow a good crop of winter legumes or did not receive liberal application of nitrogen in the form of commercial fertilizer or manure before they were planted, Oliver L. Adams, county agent, said.

Both cotton and corn require large amounts of nitrogen for their best growth. Cotton will usually respond profitably to an application of 30 to 35 pounds of nitrogen per acre, and corn usually returns a profit on almost as much nitrogen per acre.

(Thirty pounds if the quality of nitrogen contained in about 190 pounds of nitrate of soda, and 145 pounds of sulfate of ammonia or cyanamid.)

The use of 16 pounds of nitrogen per acre as a side dressing, in addition to 16 pounds of nitrogen applied under the cotton in the form of 400 pounds of 4-10-4 fertilizer per acre, resulted in an average increase of about 78 pounds of seed cotton per acre more than the 4-10-4 alone in over 500 cotton fertilizer studies conducted by the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture in 71 counties of Arkansas, according to Charles F. ## Every Week is Clean-Up Week

Most Arkansas communities have concluded a worthwhile job of dressing up for Spring in "Clean Up, Fix Up, Paint Up" week under proclamations of their mayors.

Just as untidy buildings, yards, streets and sidewalks reflect upon your community, a few disreputable retail beer establishments cast discredit upon Arkansas' legal beer industry. So, for us, every week is "Clean Up" week.

This Committee cooperates continuously with law-enforcement authorities to eliminate that small minority of beer retailers who disobey the law or permit anti-social conditions in their places of business.

May we count on you to lend us your support by patronizing only reputable beer retailers and reporting any disorderly outlets to law-enforcement officials or to this Committee?
